

A cartoon cat with orange fur, blue eyes, and a white chest patch is sitting at the top left entrance of a maze. The maze is a complex grid of black lines forming various sized squares and rectangles. A path of raspberries, consisting of several red raspberries with green leaves, is placed along a route that winds through the maze, starting from the cat and ending in the center. The path starts by going right, then down, then right again, and continues with several turns before reaching the raspberries in the middle of the maze.